

CORVETTE RACING REWIND: Antonio Garcia, Sebring 2017

Epic drive en route to stunning class victory in No. 3 Corvette C7.R

DETROIT (June 23, 2020) – Corvette Racing will return to Sebring in the coming weeks, and it's a good time to revisit one of the team's greatest victories: the 2017 Mobil 1 Twelve Hours of Sebring.

The program claimed its 11th class victory in America's oldest sports car race that year with Antonio Garcia, Jan Magnussen and Mike Rockenfeller teaming in the No. 3 Mobil 1/SiriusXM Chevrolet Corvette C7.R.

Garcia's final three hours in the race is the subject of today's "Corvette Racing Rewind" series. The Spaniard put in an inspired drive despite a dirty, smeared windshield due to fluid from another car with a little more than two hours left to go. That couldn't slow down Garcia, who passed three GTLM cars in nine laps and took the lead for good just an hour to go.

Naturally people called it Garcia's best drive with Corvette Racing. As for how he sees it...

"I think they are right! That was amazing," Garcia said after the race. "I don't know what I did... but I had to do it. We knew the win would come through strategy, great laps, tire changes, and I think we nailed everything. I was aggressive when I needed to be when I passed all those cars. At the end things went a little bit in our favor. It was a sprint to the end. I can't believe what Corvette Racing did today. Just awesome. Amazing!"

The next edition of "Corvette Racing Rewind" will feature Jordan Taylor reviewing the team's 2015 victory at the 24 Hours of Le Mans.
