Corvette Racing Fast Facts

As America's premier production-based sports car program, Corvette Racing competes around the world on endurance racing's biggest stages. For 2022, that means taking on its most ambitious schedule in its 24-year history. Dual programs are on-tap for Corvette Racing with the mid-engine Corvette C8.R in both the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship (GT Daytona PRO) and the FIA World Endurance Championship (GTE Pro). The two campaigns will help cement the C8.R and the eighth-generation Corvette production offerings as true global sports cars in key markets around the world.

Since 1999, Corvette Racing has won 121 races around the world – the most of any professional sports car team in North America. The totals include eight at the 24 Hours of Le Mans, 30 in the IMSA WeatherTech Championship, 82 in the American Le Mans Series and one in the GRAND-AM Rolex Sports Car Series for a grand total of 113 victories in North America. In 2015, the team also became the first sports car team since 2000 to win endurance racing's Triple Crown – victories at the Rolex 24 At Daytona, Mobil 1 Twelve Hours of Sebring and 24 Hours of Le Mans in the same season. The team also won five consecutive Triple Crown events – Daytona and Sebring in 2015 and 2016, and the 2015 Le Mans 24 Hours. The Corvette Racing record book also includes 15 Team championships, and 14 Manufacturers and Drivers titles.

Corvette Racing Notes

- Corvette Racing is the first team in North American professional sports car racing to win more than 100 worldwide races. Twenty-one different drivers have won races in a Corvette Racing entry, led by Oliver Gavin (51), Johnny O'Connell (41), Jan Magnussen (35), Olivier Beretta (31), and Ron Fellows (30).
- The Corvette C8.R race car was simultaneously designed and developed with the 2020 Corvette Stingray. Corvette Racing engineers were part of production design meetings more than six years before the C8.R's reveal in October. Racing tools, simulator work and wind tunnel studies were key elements in the development of both mid-engine Corvettes.
- The C8.R's aluminum frame is the same as found on the Corvette Stingray. The two share a higher percentage of shared parts than any previous generation of Corvette.
- 2021 marks Corvette's 65th year in international road racing. John Fitch and Walt Hansgen drove a Corvette to a Class B victory at the 12 Hours of Sebring in 1956, the first step onto the world stage that established Chevy's sports car as a contender in top-level competition. More than 60 years later, Corvette Racing returned to Sebring in March and captured its 11th victory at the 12 Hours.
- The Le Mans rulebook requires close adherence to production specifications, and the Corvette C8.R's roots reach to the Corvette assembly plant in Bowling Green, Ky. The hydroformed aluminum frame is the same as found on the 2020 Corvette Stingray.
- The C8.R's race-prepared 5.5-liter Chevrolet V8 engine will produce approximately 500hp, in accordance with IMSA rules, and features a flat-plane crankshaft with dual overhead camshafts.
